Forest Ranger Tells of Nearby Wonders

C. A. Chamberlain, District Ranger of the Santa Barbara national forest, has tabulated some very interesting figures concerning the travel into the national forests of California.

Writing of the Monterey division of the Santa Barbara forest, a few miles south of Carmel, Chamberlain says:

"It has more attractive spots within its boundaries than any other area of like size in the state. In its several mountain streams flowing directly into the ocean will be found some of the best trout fishing in the state. Along these streams we have eighty million feet of redwood timber growing on government lands. There are more chances for excellent summer home sites, excellent public camps, and better hunting than can be found in any of the other forests which attract so many people. We have twenty-two million feet of yellow pine growing on government lands. Eight million feet of sugar pine, and enough firs and cedars to make up a total of one hundred and twenty-six million feet of merchantable timber. We have three points on the forest over five thousand feet high. Two of them, the Santa Lucia and Cone Peak mountains, have good trails to their top, while the third point, Chews ridge, has a good wagon road. Virgin stands of sugar pine can be seen as one climbs to the top of either Cone peak or Santa Lucia mountain. In Miller canyon, near Chews, may be found the silver fir. Yellow pine may be seen on the Nacimiento river road not more than two and a half miles above the old Sands place.

"During the season 1924 there were 12,939 special use permittees admitted as visitors on the Santa Barbara forest. Since the Monterey Division has but a few special use permits in force, it is plain that the bulk of that business is south of Monterey county.

"Why not get some of our splendid areas laid out in building lots so that Monterey county can begin to realize a little revenue from taxes on special use improvements? There is only one way to do that, friends, and that is to let the proper forest officials know that you want that line of business. We need more trail money, more road money to open up some of these areas; why not begin to reach out after it?

"Supervisor Jordan is a busy man. He lvies 200 miles south of King City. He makes trips through the Monterey, but usually has urgent business to look after. Why not begin making a few dates with him and tell him some of the things you wish to have him help you to put over? I think that he would be glad to give all the assistance possible to get these things started on the Monterey division."

This City Has Two Candidates

Election for trustees of the Monterey Union High School takes place next Friday at the local school-house. In the balloting this city will be represented by two candidates—William T. Kibbler and Thomas L. Edler. A large vote is anticipated, as at the same time and place trustees for Sunset School are to be elected and the proposed school bond issue is to be voted upon

Preparations Under Way for Training Camp

The Citizens' Military Training Camp at Del Monte opens on July 21 and closes August 19. Monterey county's quota is eighteen young men. The quota for the entire state is 1800.

Carl Stanley of Del Monte is Monterey county's representative and he heads a committee of which Ray C. DeYoe and Fenton P. Foster of Carmel are members.

Carmel young men who desire to join the camp are urged to get in touch with this committee at once, as the quota will rapidly be filled.

Carmel and the entire peninsula always benefits by these camps, as during their duration scores of families of the men make their homes in our cottages and hotels.

Carmel Artist Exhibits in East

One of the recent art exhibitions held in the Edwards Place gallery in Springfield, Ill., was that of Miss Helen Cheney Brown, who is well known in this city. The art critic of the Illinois State Journal writes of this artist's work as follows:

The group of water color sketches by Miss Brown are very delightful. Miss Brown has lived abroad many years and has portrayed in her sketches bits of the beauty and life she has seen about her in England, Belgium, France, Italy, Spain and from her own studio window in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Miss Brown received her early training at the Chicago Art Institute, later teaching in one of the Chicago art schools and also in a girls' school. While her home is in California, she is abroad for two and three years at a time and spends much of her time sketching.

Of the California sketches, one particularly lovely is "Flowered Fields," another called "Rocky Shore," with the foaming surging surf beating high over the rocks and the brilliant blue water and cloud flecked sky as a background. "The Big Sand Dune" has a bit of brilliant blue water showing just beyond the buff dunes and sage green scrubby brush which makes a striking composition.

One of the most delightful is called "Ruined Castle" at Petit Andely. Miss Brown has caught the spirit of this old castle, built at the very top of a rocky pinnacle with the wooded hillsides in the distance, and a very lovely sky against which the old castle looms.

There are two fishing boats at anchor in the Mediterranean at Santa Margharita, with the lovely color of the sails against the misty hillsides and the blue of the water—all very peaceful but full of color, sunlight and air. There are many of market places and several Spanish ones of archways in brilliant sunshine and shadow.

Miss Brown has many friends in Springfield and many have enjoyed her sketches during her visits here, but this is the first time her pictures have been shown at Edwards Place.

Carmel-by-the-Sea on His Calling List

A novel by Rose Wilder Lane, distinguished short story writer and author of "The Peake of Shala," was published by Harpers March 18, under the title of "He Was a Man." In this novel Mrs. Lane tells the story of a man who emerges from obscurity to fame after years of such romance and conflict that few men have known. The waterfront and slums of San Francisco, the Arctic Circle, the roads of America tramped by Coxie's hobo army, the "Bowery" in New York, and the artists' colony at Carmel-by-the-Sea form the background for "He Was a Man," which Harpers describe as a "distinguished and a great novel."

Radio Establishes Far-off Communication

"Little old Carmel is rapidly reaching out," says Col. Clair Foster, our most energetic and enthusiastic radio fan.

Last Sunday with his wonderful apparatus he got Australia. He said, "I know they can hear us."

More wonderful still, in Monday morning, Foster got station ANE, Dutch government radio laboratory on the island of Java, on the strength of their 80-meter signals. It was quite a long message in English.

The March number of The Lariat, a unique poetry magazine published by Col. E. Hofer at Portland, Oregon, contains two poems of a decided Carmel atmosphere—"Camino Real," by Ernest Everhard Baker, and "A Poet of the Dykes," by Mary Agnes Kelly.

How Bond Funds Will Be Utilized

While all of the parents of children attending the local public school (Sunset) and, no doubt the voters, are thoroughly convinced that the school cannot function properly unless aid is given it by the proposed issue of $50,000 in bonds, they would also like to know how the trustees mean to expend the sum.

According to a statement furnished the Pine Cone the tentative plans are:

First—A sum of approximately $10,000 is to be reserved for three purposes, namely: Equipment, improvement of the playground and the acquiring of five lots to round out the school holdings. It is hoped to include tennis courts on the playground, and to encourage the use of the grounds outside of school hours and in vacation. There will be need of someone to supervise the activities there, which is a problem to be worked out in the immediate future.

Second—The devoting of the major part of the issue to the erection of class-rooms, at least six in number, and as many more as the means will allow, together with adequate teachers' rooms, in a structure that will be simple in design but in harmony with the spirit of Carmel. These class-rooms are to be lighted, heated and ventilated in the best possible manner, keeping always in mind the natural advrntages of our climate.

When the plans for the new building are drawn it is the idea of the trustees to incorporate lines for future growth. An increase of 45 children in six months means the addition of one class-room per year. Consequently plans for enlarging the building will be available at any time the needs demand, and the harmony of structure will be in no way sacrificed.

There is no idea of giving up the present structures; they will be needed, if not as class-rooms, then as rooms for manual training and domestic science. The present main building, while inadequate as a school room, may well be converted into an assembly hall—one of the most crying needs.

The bond issue proposition is submitted to the voters of the district as the result of months of thoughtful effort on the part of the trustees. The idea upon which they are working is to provide adequate facilities in order that the best work may be accomplished by pupil and instructor. There is an excellent and devoted corps of teachers, who can only serve as they are capable when relieved of trying conditions.

Next Friday is the day to vote for school bonds. Remind others.

Two Comedies and a Two-Part Operetta

The complete program for the monthly offering at the Arts and Crafts Theatre is as follows:

A striking one-act comedy entitled "Sham," by Frank G. Thompson, will open the evening's entertainment. This will be followed by "The Sire de Maltroid's Door," an adaptation from a story by Robert Louis Stevenson. Both of these will be staged and directed by Mr. George M. Ball, who put on and acted in last month's plays, and who prior to that did excellent work at the Golden Bough.

The third number on the program will be a distinct novelty, in which Blanche Tolmie and Roberta Leitch will sing the only two parts—an operetta called "Pepe Et Teta."

Seats will be sold by Tom Bickle, beginning next Monday.

Pebble Beach Fire

Last Monday at about noon the L. A. Nares home at Pebble Beach was almost completely destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $40,000. Persistent efforts were made to induce the Carmel fire department with its equipment to assist in extinguishing the flames, but Fire Commissioner H. P. Larouette and Fire Chief J. E. Nichols would not permit it. All Carmel is a fire hazard, and they did not wish to assume the responsibility of leaving the town without protection. A number of the men, however, speeded over and assisted in saving property.

Staged Poetry Makes Hit in Berkeley

Hedwiga Reicher and her company are giving their third Poetry Theater performance at The Playhouse, Berkeley, on Tuesday evening, March 24. Those who knew Miss Reicher in Carmel last summer and those who heard her evening of Staged Poetry at the Theater of the Golden Bough, will be interested in learning how deep and favorable an impression these three performances have made.

George C. Warren, dramatic critic of the San Francisco Chronicle, in a long notice of the first performance, speaks of "the beauty the strangeness and the exaltation of her effort," and says, "The effect was thrilling, unusual and very beautiful. One can imagine that with the expenditure of money for settings and effects and the employment of skilled players, the Poetry Theater will become a permanent institution. And it should. It is new, interesting, entertaining, and has the value of giving poetry a vitality and life which seem to be slipping from it in this day of hurry and eternal business."

The program for next Tuesday, interesting and very unusual, is as follows:

Overheard on a Salt Marsh, by Harold Monro.

Moonfolly (From the Songs of Conn the Fool), by Fanny Stearns Davis.

The Shirt, by Wilfred Wilson Gibson.

The Metal Checks, by Louise Driscoll.

Sister Helen, by Dante Gabriel Rosetti.

Fifth Canto of The Inferno of the Divine Comedy (The Francesca da Pimini Episode), by Dante.

The Song of the Colors, by Lawrence Hope.

Enthusiasm Rampant at Baseball Game

Last Sunday's baseball games brought more cheering and rooting from the spectators and players than has been heard this season. The first game started promptly with the Sandabs at bat, but through steady batting on the part of the Whales the game ended 20 to 10 in their favor.

The second game between the Goldfish and the Seals was a hard-fought battle, with the score tied in the last half of the sixth inning. Amidst the wildest excitement, the Seals scored by one in the last inning, winning the game.

The Sardines in their skirmish with the Sharks for the last game were in especially good form, the kids hitting far above their average They won the game 11 to 3.

The result of these games puts the Seals at the head of the league with six games to their credit, having lost only two of the eight games played. The Sharks and Sardines are tied for second place with five games to their credit, and the Goldfish are in arrears, having won only two of the games played.

The scores for last Sunday's games are as follows:

JUST KIDDING

Being the Semi-Serious Musings of Carmel's Own Sam Pepys

WE'VE BEEN disgracefully busy, what with moving, getting a bit of a book together, admiring our new surroundings, sorting our papers, etc., etc., etc., and etaoin, and shrdlu, if you know what they mean. In fact we've put off the weekly stint of Just Kidding until we're really pinched for time. Can't give you the real goods. But you might try the following. It's worth a grin, or a scowl, according to your lights.

BOOTLEGGER'S ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTY JAIL YARD

(AS NOTED DOWN BY S. A. R.)

The Congress tolls the knell of boozing day,
The thirsty crews sail drinkless o'er the sea,
The workman homeward plods his sober way,
And leaves the world to dryness—but for me.

Now fails the sparkling highball from the sight,
And all the town a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the bottle circles in the night,
Or M. D.'s lawfully prescribe for colds.

IF THIS is perfectly satisfactory so far, with no complaints from those who neither advertise nor subscribe, we'll ramble on for a verse or two more. So:

Beneath those weeping elms, that yew tree's shade,
Their aprons piled in many a mouldering heap,
Each in his narrow grave forever laid,
The old bar-keepers of the nation sleep.

The busy call of cocktail-shaking morn,
The rum-hound littered from his straw-stuffed bed,
The cop's shrill whisper for his early horn,
No more can rouse 'em,—'cause they're dead.

WE KNOW it's not poetry. In truth it's vulgr. We shall be whispered about in Basham's, roasted in Curtis', panned at the Seven Arts, but still we can't resist continuing:

The best of extra dry, the whisky-sour,
And all that Clicquot, all that Mumm e'er gave,
Await alike in gutter the zero hour,
The Path of Volstead to the sewery grave.

Can coffee urn or carbonated stuff
Back to normal bring the morning breath?
Can near-beer's charm smooth out the way so rough,
Or orange phosphate drown the dessicating death?

Full many a quart of purest kerosene
My dark mislabeled kegs and bottles bear,
Doomed many a magnum fit for queen
To waste its bouquet on the warehouse air.

THAT LAST LINE was a bit rough. It didn't seem to fit. But maybe Tom Bickle and Harry Comings will get the meaning of it, even if it's a trifle obscure. We lay no claim to being a poet. Hence:

Far from the madding register's infernal din,
The bar-keeps sleep in peace beneath yon pines;
No more for them the sawdust soaked with gin,
The noisy tenors' rank "Sweet Adelines."

AND NOW it occurs to us that fitting tribute has never been paid to the originator of that American institution, Free Lunch. The old sinners among you will remember the dainty slices of Virginia ham, the wedges of snappy cheese, the queen olives and pretzels and lozengers of wurst and salami. We'll give him "The Epitaph," and so:

There rests his head beneath a ton of earth
A man of genius if of name unknown;
Whose patrons nibbled and increased their girth,
While moochers often braced him for a loan.

Large were his glasses and his way sincere,
Summer found his steins all icy cold;
He gave to Mankind free lunch with the beer,
He reaped from Mankind coin in days of old.

LAST WEEK we were too verbose. To get our story in we had to sacrifice our "head in a box" and accept a measly line of type. So this week we'll turn the tables, so to speak, permitting Mr. William Overstreet or his new press-room foreman, to construct an extra deep box, or stick an ad under this babble of

George Bellows' Last Canvases

In New York a group of the last pictures by George Bellows is attracting much attention. They were done last summer and the exhibition arranged long before his death. Within the compass of these dozen pictures all sides of this many-sided man are represented, landscape, crowded scenes of metropolitan life, events of the sporting world and several portraits. The list proves that in spite of the great success of his large portrait groups George Bellows himself remained until the last free from the tyranny of popularity. We are fortunate in having in the Harrison collection two pictures painted when this artist was for the moment absorbed in the subjects they represent. They are "The Coming Storm," a picture of emotional content, and "The Cliff Dwellers." Both demonstrate that freedom from formula which was characteristic of him.

New Dining Room

The Carmel Restaurant, across from the service station, which recently came into the hands of Karl Harris and Albert Byrd, will tomorrow open their new dining room, serving both gentlemen and ladies. A specialty will be made of first-class dinners, also particular attention will be given to short orders, including steaks, chops and special dishes.

Only the best of ingredients will be used, and prices have been placed at a moderate figure. Service and quality are paramount.

The Curtain Shop

The large and growing demand for cretonnes for curtains and for other uses has made it necessary for Miss Brouhard to vastly increase her stock of this material. Newly arrived goods are now on display at 443 Alvarado st., Monterey.—Adv.

ARE YOU A CAPITALIST?

In the books on political economy society has always been divided into capitalists and non-capitalists, or as those who appeal to class distinctions put it, men of millions, and the millions of men.

The latter group was considered to be the great public, and it is a mark of a rapidly-changing age that there is not the sharp distinction between these great economic groups that formerly existed.

During the past few years millions of men and women have been transferred from the non-capitalist to the capitalist class—to prove this let anyone examine the lists of stockholders in corporations.

From the biggest business organization to the latest labor bank organized throughout the country, where capital is required and invested up into the hundreds of millions of dollars, ownership is subdivided.

As Collier's said editorially January 3, millions of men are becoming the men of millions, and literally supplying Big Business, once so much dreaded and derided, with the millions with which to extend its operation.

MARRIED FLIRTATIONS

After having listened to the dreary story of 10,000 divorce cases, Judge Sabath of Chicago recently wrote a paper on "Marital Harmony." One of his wise counsels was that wives should cease teasing their husbands by idle flirtations. Some of us know husbands, who, being a shade too fascinating to women, should ponder this suggestion.

Married men and women are not supposed to be hermits. They are not asked to hide from the other sex for fear of contamination. But their judgment and conscience should say when these friendships become a little too sporty for their health.

Some people who desire to be original, think it is smart to cultivate intimacies that provoke remark. People simply have to make a choice. They can either have the highly spiced exciteements of these flirtations, ending in a bitter taste, or the sweet satisfactions of a loving marriage. The two can not be enjoyed simultaneously.

The Matriarch—
A Family Chronicle

In this compact, well-written story of a great family, G. B. Stern has accomplished something which, in scope and dignity, can only be compared with the "Forsyte Saga," by John Galsworthy, to whom the book is dedicated.

The narrative begins in the days of Napoleon, when Babette, one of the family's best-loved ancestors, a charming young girl in her teens, was sent for by the great general, to become an interpreter in his camp. She was rewarded for her services by a ring, which was passed down through many generations as an heirloom.

It was a nomad family, this tribe of the Rakonitzes—cosmopolitan, rich and care-free, making and spending money easily. After moving through brilliant European circles, through Vienna in its days of glory, the main branch finally drifted to London, with Anastasia, the Matriarch, at its head.

Anastasia is an unforgetable figure. Full of vitality, overbearing, holding them all together by sheer force of will, this tremendous personality dominates the whole scene. They cannot get away from her. She orders their lives, entertains their friends, and spends their money. Nothing pleases her better than to have the whole crowd around her table, living in her house and depending on her. She is loved, respected and obeyed by them all—that is, by all the Rakonitzes (there is trouble here and there with daughters-in-law).

There is nothing that escapes her. She superintends the cooking, the dinner-parties, the linen, the travels, the marriages—in fact, all the affairs of as many of her descendants as she can persuade to live around her. She is generous, whimsical, clever and domineering.

When the family fortunes come crashing down, and the men-folk go down with them, the burden falls for the most part on the girls of the present generation, of whom Toni is the most notable.

As she bravely shoulders her responsibilities, we see the old grandmother's characteristics creeping out here and there. Her devotion to the family, her ancestor-worship, her wild spells, and above all, her indomitable will. Toni is a pure autocrat when she smashes Derek's trumpery little love affair to pay a debt of honor, and Danny is quite right in his estimate of her. He is admirable in the stand which he takes, loving her as he did. He would have been nothing but "her husband" as she developed the Matriarch of the new generation.

It is not only that the individual portraits are many and fine, but the picture of the family as a whole is remarkable. Proud of its traditions, spreading its roots all over Europe, it manages to keep a distinct type and the Rakonitz features occur again and again, all along the line.

It is strange, too, how the male and female characteristics remain distinct. It is always the women who are strong and memorable. The men are simply the money-makers—generous, courtly and easily swayed by their women, who always outlive them.

With the capable handling of so much material, G. B. Stern has proved herself a novelist of the first order. It is not an easy matter to steer a clear course through a maze of six generations without becoming tedious. As a study of heredity, "The Matriarch" is penetrating and true to life, and as a story, it is full of absorbing interest from beginning to end.—D. C. H., Woodside Library.

Ordinance No. 60

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING DISTRICTS OR ZONES, REGULATING THE USE OF PROPERTY THEREIN, FIXING PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION HEREOF, AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT HEREWITH.

WHEREAS, the public interest, health, safety, comfort and convenience as well as the preservation of the peace and public welfare of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, require the classification of the City into districts or zones within some of which it shall be lawful, and within some of which it shall be unlawful to erect, construct, alter or maintain certain buildings or make use of certain properties or to carry on certain trades or callings.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea do ordain as follows:

Section A. For the purpose of regulating and restricting the location and use of buildings for dwellings, industries, business, non-obnoxious industries and obnoxious industries and for the purpose of designating the location of properties to be used for specified purposes, the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is hereby districted or zoned as shown on a certain map to be known as: "ZONE MAP OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA," Monterey County, and hereby adopted by the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and referred to and made part of this ordinance.

RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT—ZONE NO. I. Zone one shall include single family dwelling, churches, clubs, schools and other public and semi-public buildings not used for residential purposes.

Section B. In a residential district it shall be lawful to maintain an art studio, doctor's office room, attorney's office, real estate office, notary public office, dressmaking parlor, and similar offices or studios of an educational and cultural character, provided the space devoted to such uses does not exceed fifty per cent of the space of the dwelling used for this purpose. Tea rooms may be maintained in a residential district.

No dance halls shall be permitted in connection with any tea rooms located in residential district.

BUSINESS AND MULTIPLE DWELLING DISTRICT—Zone No. II. ZONE TWO shall include and may be occupied by retail business, trades and professions, theatres, lodges, public halls, dwellings intended to be occupied by two or more families living separately and doing their cooking on the premises, and by hotels.

Rooming houses with five rooms or less to be rented to others than members of the family occupying a single family dwelling, shall not be considered as a hotel. Rooming houses with more than five rooms to be rented shall be designated as hotels, and shall be located outside of the residential district designated as Zone One.

In the district designated as Zone Two certain spaces may be used in business buildings for industrial purposes, provided not more than one-half of the business floor area is used for industrial purposes and that not more than a maximum of 400 square feet are used for this purpose on any floor or in connection with any one business. None of the industries permitted in Zone Two shall be of a character that would emit smoke, create noises or would in any way interfere with the use of the district for its primary purpose, namely, business and residential purposes.

INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT—ZONE III. Zone Three shall include repair shops, cleaning and dyeing establishments, warehouses, wholesale business, lumber yards and saw mills. It shall also include all other industries of a non-obnoxious character.

Such industrial zones as are to be established in the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea shall be fixed by regular procedure as outlined in the present ordinance, and zones already occupied by the various industries within the city limits of Carmel-by-the-Sea shall not be affected by the provisions of this ordinance unless such industries should be removed from such zones or the plants shall have been destroyed by fire to the extent of more than fifty per cent of the value of the building improvements.

OBNOXIOUS INDUSTRIES—ZONE No. IV. In Zone Four industries of an obnoxious character shall include industries that emit fumes, smoke, or gases, and such others as produce waste materials of an obnoxious or dangerous character, such as stables, soap factories, match factories, chemical works, saw mills, and other industries of a similar character that may by their presence in the community or neighborhood be prejudicial to health, safety, comfort and convenience, or any of these.

Such industries as are designated in Zone IV, may only be located by special permission of the Board of Trustees upon application to the City Board of Trustees, which may first consider the recommendation of the City Planning Commission and shall determine such Zone IV. No such permission shall be granted without first holding at least one hearing properly advertised in the local press or by official notice placed within five hundred feet of the area to be designated as Zone IV, and such notice shall be given not less than one week prior to such hearing. In case the notices are to be posted in the district, they shall be placed not more than four hundred feet apart on every street leading to such projected Zone IV.

The notices and general method of procedure in establishing industrial zones designated in this ordinance under Zone III shall be the same as for the establishment of Zone IV.

Section C. All existing buildings and usages located within a zone which does not conform to the classification provided for by this or subsequent zone ordinances and designated on the official zone map shall be considered nonconforming, and shall not be enlarged or reconstructed of any more permanent material unless the Board of Trustees has rezoned the land upon which such buildings are located so as to make them conform to the requirements of this ordinance, as to zone and zone restrictions.

Section D. Uses permitted in Zone I shall also be permitted in all other zones; uses permitted in Zone II shall also be permitted in all zones but Zone I; uses permitted in Zone III shall also be permitted in Zone IV.

Section E. Oil service stations, undertaking parlors, garages and auto camps shall not be established in any part of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea unless application has first been made to and a permit therefor granted by the Board of Trustees, and provided also that such application may be referred to and considered by the City Planning Commission at a regular meeting, and in such case a report of said Commission shall be filed with the City Clerk at least two days prior to the granting of such permit.

The procedure regarding hearing and notice for the establishment of special zones for garages, oil service stations, undertaking parlors and auto camps shall be the same as the procedure provided in this ordinance for obnoxious and non-obnoxious industries.

Prior to the filing of the report of the City Planning Commission regarding any application for an oil service station, garage, undertaking parlor or auto camp, the Commission may request that plans and specifications for the proposed buildings shall be submitted to them for examination and study.

Section F. No building permits shall be issued for any structure unless such structure is to be located in a zone specifically permitting the use of such building for the purposes for which the building is designated or suited.

Section G. All applications for the establishment of zones or for the amendment of existing zones shall be filed with the City Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and may be referred to the City Planning Commission for consideration and recommendation. No report of the City Planning Commission shall be binding upon the Board of Trustees.

Section H. All new zones shall be made only after at least one hearing by the Board of Trustees, and all such hearings shall be advertised in the local press, or be posted, at least one week before such hearing. When notices are posted they shall be placed not more than four hundred feet apart on all street frontages at least on one side of the street within the area to be zoned or re-zoned, and four hundred feet in all directions upon the streets extending into the district to be zoned or re-zoned.

Section I. Whenever a building or site used for non-conforming purposes is abandoned or unoccupied for the specific non-conforming use existing prior to the passage of this ordinance, such building and site shall after six months from ceasing to be used or occupied for non-conforming uses, revert to the classification provided for in the present zoning ordinance and defined on the official map.

Section J. Any person violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punishable by a fine not to exceed $300.00 or by imprisonment in the county jail of Monterey County for a period not to exceed ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section K. In case any section or provision of this ordinance is adjudged invalid, such invalidity shall not affect the remainder of this ordinance.

Section L. Any zone herein, or which hereafter may be, established, may be changed and altered by the Board of Trustees as in this section provided, and the procedure therefor, as in this section set forth, shall be alternative to any other method provided in this ordinance for such purpose.

The Board of Trustees shall have the power to change or alter any such zone, provided that said board shall first pass a resolution declaring its intention so to do and setting forth therein the nature, character, and extent of such proposed change or alteration. Such resolution of intention shall be published twice successively in a newspaper of general circulation published and circulated weekly, or oftener, in said City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. Said resolution of intention shall set forth the time fixed by the Board of Trustees for the purpose of hearing objections to the proposed change or alteration of any zone, and the first publication of said resolution of intention shall be at least ten days prior to the time so fixed for such hearing. Any owner of real property situate in any zone proposed to be changed or altered may object thereto by filing such objections with the City Clerk of said city not later than the hour fixed for such hearing. Should the proposed alteration or change of any zone affect the extent or character of any other zone, any owner of real property in such last-mentioned zone may file written objections thereto as in this section provided with relation to the owners of real property in such first mentioned zone. Objections in writing, filed as aforesaid, by the owners of a majority of the area of the real property situate in the zone or zones to be affected in character or extent by such proposed change or alteration, will estop the Board of Trustees from altering or changing any such zone for a period of six months from and after the time fixed for such hearing, or to which such hearing is continued, as the case may be, and in such event said zone shall not be altered or changed, upon the expiration of said period, without the passage of a resolution of intention and notice being given, as in this section hereinabove prescribed.

Any zone may be altered and changed by the Board of Trustees upon a petition signed by the owners of ten per cent of the area of the real property in the zone or zones to be affected in character or extent by such alteration or change, after the passage of a resolution of intention and notice given thereof, as hereinabove in this section provided; except that the proposed change may be estopped by the filing of a fifty per cent petition as aforesaid, and any such zone or zones must be altered and changed as prayed for in any petition signed by the owners of more than fifty per cent of the area of such real property, in which event the passage of a resolution of intention and notice of hearing shall be dispensed with.

Section M. No existing business, occupation, profession, calling, or trade, shall in any wise be affected by the passage of this ordinance, whether the same is carried on in a prohibited zone therefor, or otherwise, save as in this ordinance otherwise specifically described.

Section N. This ordinance is hereby declared to be immediately urgent and necessary for the preservation of the public health and safety, and shall take effect and be in force forthwith upon its final passage and approval.

Section O. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, this 2nd day of March, 1925, by the following vote:

AYES: Trustees Kibbler, Goold, Larouette, Dennis, Parkes.

NOES: Trustees—None.

ABSENT. Trustees—None.

APPROVED: MARCH 2nd, 1925.

Make Better Friends of Our Animal Friends

This department is edited by Eunice T. Gray, to whom all communications should be sent, in care of the Pine Cone.

The regular March meeting of the Carmel Humane Society was held at Pine Inn, Wednesday, March 11.

Plans for the observation of Be Kind to Animals Week were discussed, announcements of which will appear later.

The members expressed themselves in favor of the proposed school bonds for erecting a suitable building for Carmel children.

The animal pound is in old Carmel, just a block from the Carmel road, at the entrance of the Valley road.

A. K. Miller is in charge. He is to keep dogs three days, and will place notices on the bulletin board next to the bakery, on the fence at Goold's and at the entrance to the city hall on Dolores street.

So if your dog or cat is missing, phone Mr. A. K. Miller, 917-W-1.

State Convention to Be Held at Riverside

The seventeenth annual convention of the State Humane Association of California will be held in Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside, California, April 23, 24 and 25, 1925.

The committee in charge of the program have included subjects to be presented by experts in their particular work, which should prove of interest to the delegates.

Among those on the program will be David Starr Jordan, President Emeritus Leland Stanford University; Judge Edw. F. Hahn, Superior Court, Los Angeles. William S. Hart and Hobart Bosworth, motion picture stars, will address the members. Representatives of the railroad companies will inform the members of the work being done in handling livestock, among them being James King, livestock agent, Los Angeles.

Several well known authors are expected to be present and give their experiences with animals as pets. A round table luncheon with discussion by those taking active part in humane work will be one of the features of the convention.

Santa Clara County Active

Santa Clara County is very much alive to needs of animals and birds. The Santa Clara Humane Society has just added to its membership a local branch at Gilroy, and a Santa Clara County Audubon Society was organized in February with over fifty members. Local Audubon societies have been established this month in Los Altos and Los Gatos.

Mrs. Bell of Saratoga and Carmel is one of the enthusiastic members of the County Audubon Society which was organized through the special efforts of Bertha M. Rice, a long time student of California wild life.

Poet and Philosopher

The fame of John McGroarty as a dramatist should not be allowed to obscure the outstanding qualities of John Steven McGroarty as a poet, for it is as a writer of patriotic verse that his name will be remembered to posterity.

Mr. McGroarty is a typical figure in California literature. Though born and educated in Pennsylvania, the enterprising young man early moved to the Golden State, and promptly steeped himself in the historic lore of California. No native son is more loyal than is "John," as his familiar friends call him.

Poem after poem, redolent of his love for California, flowed from his magic pen, but the one which everyone quotes is "Just California," which was printed originally 22 years ago in "The Los Angeles Times," to which newspaper this wise philosopher contributes weekly his benign rays of friendly good cheers.

A New Establishment

A new business establishment opened in Carmel this week. A. Lippman has rented the premises formerly occupied by the Carmel Oriental Shop on Ocean avenue, and will conduct a tailoring, cleaning and pressing business. He will make suits to order, and will do all kinds of alterations on men's and women's garments. Mr. Lippman has been in business on the peninsula for several years, and is well known in Carmel. He would appreciate your patronage. Prices reasonable.—Adv.

Pine Needles

Attorney and Mrs. Will A. Powell were last week-end visitors here. They will occupy their North Carmel house during June.

At Monterey, under the auspices of the Army Y. M. C. A., Daisy F. Bostick is directing the soldier mind how to shoot, specializing in the three R's.

The Charles Van Ripers are leaving shortly on a trip which will take them through the wonderlands of Arizona. During the journey baseball will be taboo.

George J. Koch, Highlands artist, drove to San Francisco last Sunday and arranged for an exhibit of his work in one of the large galleries. Mrs. Koch went too.

Mrs. Valentine Mott Porter with her mother, Mrs. Meade Williams, and Jesse Lynch Williams, motored south Wednesday to spend the week-end in Santa Barbara.

Rolando Le Roy Rivera, illustrator, from New York, and "Freckles" Smith, San Francisco cartoonist, were here this week, guests of Gene Byrnes and "Tack" Knight.

States of de[illegible] to the California Council, [illegible] week in Monterey, have visited in Carmel. They found their brethren here busy erecting business places and dwellings.

The creator of "The Chimney Corner Tearoom" in Boston, Miss Elizabeth Eager, now Mrs. Luigi Montifiori, was a recent guest at Carmel Highlands Inn with her husband—honeymooning. They reside in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr F. Albertson have returned from Los Angeles, where Mr. Albertson attended the third annual convention of the builders of Pacific Ready Cut Homes. He reported business as prospering in the south, and all elements united in boosting.

With the opening of her branch millinery store here Mrs. Ida Harlan is prepared to serve her many Carmel patrons at home. Mrs. Harlan is appreciative of her Carmel business, and anticipates a continuance of the same. adv

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Powers are here for a few days and are in their cottage on Casanova street.

Carmel attendants at the Kreisler concert in San Francisco last week were Mrs. John B. Dennis and Mrs. Ralph Whitehead.

Until their return to New York, the Collis house on Camino Real will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams and son.

Judge and Mrs. Thomas Taylor recently had as guests here Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crane, former Carmelites, who now reside in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Byington Ford have had as house guest in Pebble Beach Mrs. Morse Hay of Los Angeles. Mrs. Hay is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. B. Morse.

Palo Alto visitors here last week were Mr. and Mrs. Will S. Cooper, wife, child and nurse. They secured a cottage here for several summer months' occupancy.

The Carmel city trustees will meet next Monday night. The principal business will be to open such bids as are submitted to do the work of improving Seventh, Ninth and Twelfth avenues.

Notice

At a directors' meeting of Coast Valleys Gas and Electric Company, on March 11, a dividend of $1.50 per share on Series A, and a dividend of $1.75 on Series B, was declared payable on April 1, 1925, to all stockholers of record on March 15, 1925.

THE LAMPMAKER

ALMOST every one has enjoyed the "Just Kidding" feature of the Pine Cone. It is the playful work of a writer of international reputation, who chooses at times to adopt pseudonyms familiar to most readers. Other writers and artists of standing have enthused over "Just Kidding", and Don Marquis, famous columnist and critic, has sent to the Pine Cone for all copies containing this feature. The author has been induced to put his impressions of Carmel into a book.

Therefore, April 1st will mark the issue of—

Now, about those Bonds!

Carmel is going ahead artistically, industrially, commercially.

Our school must keep pace with every advance. One of the first essentials in a city of homes is adequate public schooling facilities.
